Experiential Learning Theory Bibliography

July, 2002

Prepared by Alice Kolb & David Kolb

The bibliography contains references on experiential learning theory from 1971-2002. The updated list has 1633 entries. The bibliography is organized in three sections. Section one gives recent publications by year, section two includes selected recent websites on experiential learning theory and section three gives a complete listing by author from 1971 to 2001. The bibliography is in EndNote and formatted in APA style. Several research studies listed in the bibliography can be accessed through research databases such as: Social Science Citation Index, MEDLINE, Education Abstract, Dissertation Abstract, ERIC Document, and others. A number of databases offer access to an online journal with abstracts and full text service. For online access to the bibliography, the Learning Style Inventory and other experiential learning theory instruments go to www.hayresourcesdirect.haygroup.com. Please send any additions and corrections to dak5@msn.com

An analysis of the 1999 bibliography of 990 references, shows the following distribution by field, publication type:
